MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Maritime union officials asked President Johnson today to intervene personally in a labor dispute over the loading of wheat for Russia to avert "an international crisis."

U.N. to Act on Cyprus Dispute

Greece-Turkey War Threat Increases

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The Cyprus dispute goes before the U.N. Security Council today as Britain and the United States seek to head off military intervention by Turkey and Greece.

The council debate, requested by Britain and Cyprus, was expected to launch negotiations for an international force linked to the U.N. Its purpose would be to prevent another general outbreak of fighting between the communities.

The United States and Britain fear that another serious outbreak would prompt Turkey and Greece to send in troops to back up their Cypriot kin. The result could be a war between anchors of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Archbishop Makarios, Greek Cypriot president of Cyprus, broadcast an appeal to Turkish and Greek Cypriots for restraint. But Makarios warned that his government—meaning the Greek Cypriots—would "not give in to threats, pressure or blackmail."

"We shall fight courageously and resolutely against the designs or attacks on our island," he said. Since the communal there has been virtually no governmental cooperation between the Greek Cypriot majority and the Turkish Cypriot minority.

U.S. Undersecretary of State George W. Ball returned to Washington Sunday night after failing to persuade Makarios to accept a U.S.-British proposal for a 10,000-man peace-keeping force supplied by NATO nations.

The archbishop said he would only accept a force approved by the U.N. and made up of British Commonwealth nations.

Ball, who won acceptance of the NATO force from Greece and Turkey, described Cyprus as a "very critical problem."

Cyprus Foreign Minister Spyros Kyprianou was expected to tell the council an international force would be acceptable if it is placed under the council and does not consist of NATO troops.

United College Fund Drive Nets $17,289 In Area

Thirteen Ohio colleges and universities realized $17,289 in gifts from their Youngstown area alumni during the 10-day campaign carried out through Friday.

The institutions, members of the Independent College Alumni Associates of Ohio (ICAA), reported 731 gifts—or 56 per cent—from their 1,315 alumni contacted.

Topping the field in dollars received was Ohio Wesleyan with $4,111 while the College of Wooster was runner-up with $2,553.

Highest in the percentage of alumni contributing was Capital University with 94 per cent—93 contributors of 99 contacted. Wittenberg had 70 per cent while Baldwin-Wallace College and Wooster each had 69 per cent.

The highest average gift was recorded by Dayton University with $108, followed by Ohio Wesleyan with $50.13.

Results of the ICAA campaign are: Ashland, $50; Baldwin-Wallace, $799; Bluffton, $432; Capital, $1,454; Dayton, $756; Hiram, $1,179; Heidelberg, $640; Mount Union, $1,065; Muskingum, $1,317; Ohio Northern, $882; Ohio Wesleyan, $4,111; Wittenberg, $1,831; and Wooster, $2,553.

a sharp verbal slap at Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges for accusing the unions of trying to make U.S. foreign policy by threatening to boycott the wheat shipments.

Earlier, top maritime union officials rejected the personal plea of Asst. Secretary of Labor James J. Reynolds, sent here by the President because of the threatened boycott.

Resolution Blasts Hodges
The unanimously adopted resolution by the maritime trades department accused Hodges and the Department of Commerce of becoming "an agent for profit-hungry operators."

The crux of the dispute is the insistence of union officials that at least half the wheat shipped to Russia go in U.S. flag vessels. They said the late President Kennedy had pledged this but that now federal officials were claiming not enough American vessels are available.

Shipping in foreign flag vessels is generally cheaper.

The unions' action threatens to bog down on American docks some $75 million worth of grain to be shipped by the Continental Grain Co.

Reynolds is expected to try to soften the attitude of AFL-CIO's maritime trades department on its threat to boycott loading of wheat for Russia, unless at least 50 per cent of it goes aboard U.S. ships.

Meets With Union
He arrived late Sunday night and spent until 3 a.m. with maritime union officials. A spokesman for Reynolds said later that the talks did not change the unions' boycott threat but that government officials are trying to work out some assurances demanded by the unions.

In connection with the Florida East Coast Railway strike, Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz today asked labor and management to meet in Daytona Beach, Fla., Tuesday.

Reynolds also is expected to confer with G. E. Leighty, chief negotiator for 11 unions on strike against the Florida East Coast Railway in a 13-month-old wage dispute marked by dynamitings, shootings and accusations of sabotage.

Blasts Rip Train
Last Friday, two blasts tore into the underside of a Florida East Coast freight train near New Smyrna Beach. Mayor William Hathaway of New Smyrna Beach asked President Johnson to use federal forces to halt violence along the line, or shut down the railroad until the strike is settled.

Johnson got involved after strikers picketed a new spur track entering Cape Kennedy. Construction crews working on space facilities refused to cross the picket lines.

The AFL-CIO maritime trades department is expected to formally adopt the proposal to boycott loading of Soviet wheat shipments and then ask the Executive Council for its backing.

The Executive Council is made up of 29 vice presidents and other top officers of the 13.5-million-member federation.

Glenn Certified As Senate Candidate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The name of Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. was certified today to the May 5 Ohio primary ballot as a Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate.

The certification was made by Republican Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, himself a candidate for his party's nomination for the Senate.

Still in doubt was the certification of Robert Taft Jr. for the GOP Senate nomination. An official protest has been filed, charging technical irregularities in Taft's nominating petitions.

A hearing on the protest is scheduled Tuesday.

N. England Storm Leaves 13 Dead

By The Associated Press
A sneak Northeast storm whipped by gale force winds deposited up to 18 inches of snow and caused at least 13 deaths in New England Sunday. Temperatures dropped into the teens over much of the area after the storm passed.

Many highways, cleared of all but an inch or two of packed snow, became covered by sheets of ice.

The wind, clocked at 92 miles per hour at Truro on Cape Cod, built up huge drifts and created blizzard-like conditions.

In Maine, four women drowned when their car slid off U.S. 1 and landed upside down in a Passamaquoddy Bay cove at Robbinston.

At least nine other persons — six in Massachusetts and three in Connecticut—died of heart attacks while shoveling snow or from storm-caused exhaustion.

Eighteen inches of snow fell in the Plymouth, N.H., area. Lebanon, N.H., had 14; Worcester and Bedford, Mass., 12; Brunswick, Maine, 11; Boston, 10; Hartford, Conn., 8 and Montpelier, Vt., 6.

The storm closed airports, all but immobilized highway travel and caused power failures in dozens of communities.

During the full fury of the storm, visibility was almost zero on most highways in Massachusetts, Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont.

The storm moved out to sea south of Nova Scotia Sunday night.

Fresh snow also covered all of upstate New York, ranging up to 15 inches in the eastern Catskill Mountains. Drifting was reported in some areas, chiefly along Lake Erie.

Generally fair and dry weather prevailed in the major part of the nation. More rain fell along

Defense Chiefs' Data Conflict

McNamara, LeMay Disagree on Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress reportedly has received contradictory testimony on the reliability of missiles from Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Air Force Chief of Staff Gen. Curtis LeMay.

Informed sources on Capitol Hill report that the two, in secret testimony before the House Armed Services Committee, differed not only in their general estimates of reliability but in the specific figures they cited as evidence.

Differences between McNamara and LeMay could have potential political repercussions. Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona has raised the question of missile reliability during his campaign for the Republican presidential nomination.

Goldwater, a major general in the Air Force Reserve, has challenged the reliability of missiles and called for more funds for manned bombers.

This evidently was the position taken by LeMay and rejected by McNamara before the House committee.

More light on the controversy may be shed Tuesday when the committee releases a transcript of the hearings that were held for two weeks beginning Jan. 27.

The transcript, however, will be censored by the Department of Defense. It is conceivable that figures on the reliability of missiles—if deemed classified—

51 Wounded In Theater Blast

Saigon Bomb Kills Three Americans

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese police held a wounded ricksha driver today as a prime suspect in the bombing of a U.S. movie theater.

Three Americans were killed and 51 Americans — including women and children — were wounded Sunday in the latest anti-American violence in Saigon. Nine Vietnamese also were injured.

One of the dead was a military policeman who was shot while standing guard outside the theater. Another was a Marine Corps captain who was crushed under falling debris as he ran inside to warn the theater's 500 patrons.

The body of the third American was so badly mangled identification was delayed.

The U.S. command in South Viet Nam ordered security measures tightened to protect American personnel in the capital from terrorism by the Communists Viet Cong. On Feb. 9, two bombs exploded under the bleachers of a softball field near Saigon Airport, killing two U.S. enlisted men and injuring 23 other Americans.

Although police declined to discuss the ricksha boy's suspected role in the bombing, the shooting and blast apparently were the work of a highly skilled terrorist team.

Witnesses saw at least two

Declares That Is Matter for Jury to Decide

Panel of 900 Called In Order to Qualify 12 As Unprejudiced

DALLAS (AP) — Attorneys for Jack Ruby opened his murder trial today with a motion for a directed verdict of acquittal and Judge Joe B. Brown promptly overruled it.

The defense attorneys, Melvin Belli and Joe Tonaill, said they based the motion on the result of a neurological examination of Ruby conducted Jan. 29-30.

Ruby is charged with murder with malice in the shooting of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy. Tonaill said that the examination showed "brain damage."

James Bowie, assistant district attorney, objected there was "no procedure" for this. Matter For Jury

In overruling the motion for acquittal, the judge said "that is a matter for the jury to decide."

The defense also offered two motions on grounds of double jeopardy and res judicata — that is, the question already had been adjudicated. These apparently were based on testimony introduced in a bond hearing and in a hearing on a motion to transfer the trial to another city.

Judge Brown, asked about double jeopardy motion, said, "I don't know. There is no provision for it in Texas law. Of course, they're basing all their motions on this psychiatric report."

The defense attorneys huddled closely with Ruby, leaning over him as he sat at a table in the area reserved for attorneys.

Ruby, wearing a dark suit with a brown shirt, looked pale and his expression was grave. The historic trial began formally at 9:04 a.m. (CST).

The courtroom was completely filled.

An unprecedented panel of 900 jury candidates — nearly double the normal number — has been called in order to qualify 12 as unprejudiced.

Ruby, 52, a pale, pudgy night club operator, gunned down Lee Harvey Oswald, a self-styled Marxist, two days after the President was killed in Dallas and Oswald was charged with murdering him.

The trial is starting in a courtroom directly across the street from the building where the assassin lurked and then fired at Kennedy.

Defense lawyers indicate that they will try to go into the circumstances of the President's

Zirwas Goes on Trial for Murder

WARREN, Ohio (AP)—David H. Zirwas of Girard, charged with first-degree murder in the slaying of Benjamin Krawiecki last September, goes on trial today before Common Pleas Court Judge G. H. Birrell.

Zirwas has pleaded innocent by reason of insanity. Krawiecki, an employee of a Youngstown vending machine company, was shot to death on a Niles street. Zirwas was captured seven days later after a chase by police in Las Vegas. Nevada authorities said Zirwas was shot and wounded a hitchhiker, Terry Houk, 16, of Independence, Kan., before being captured.

Work on Tax Cut Measure Resumed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate House conferees resume work today on the tax bill with the possibility that a compromise measure may be worked out by Wednesday.

This could mean the measure would be ready for President

Johnson's signature by next week, opening the way for higher paychecks for the average taxpayer by mid-March.

The conferees are trying to iron out differences between the $11.2 billion tax cut passed by the House and the $11.9 billion reduction approved in the Senate.

Although the pace in committees is expected to pick up, Congress generally planned another light week.

The controversial civil rights bill—cornerstone with the tax cut of the Johnson administration's legislative program—was expected to arrive at the Senate's door today. The 11-part omnibus measure received 290-130 approval from the House last week.

A House banking subcommittee starts hearings today on President Johnson's housing bill. Robert C. Weaver, head of the Housing and Home Finance Agency, was called as the first witness. A Senate subcommittee begins work on it Wednesday.

A House Labor subcommittee scheduled the start of hearings on another Johnson program—a plan to institute double time-for-overtime in certain industries, a penalty designed to encourage employment of more workers rather than the use of overtime labor.

Secretary of Labor Willard Wirtz was the leadoff witness for this measure.

Baseball and football magnates will be on hand today and Tuesday before a Senate Antitrust subcommittee which is considering a professional sports antitrust bill.

The Senate Rules Committee continues behind closed doors its probe into the doings of Bobby Baker, former secretary of the Senate majority.

On the House floor, the most important bill this week will be the $16.9 billion military procurement authorization bill coming up Thursday.

Aged Man Escapes Fire In Trailer

LEETONIA — A 90-year-old man, Bert Crook, escaped unharmed when fire destroyed his small house trailer on Rt. 558, three miles south of here, early this morning.

Rockne Taylor, a neighbor who lives across the road, looked out his window shortly after 1:30 a.m. and noticed the blaze.

While his wife called the Leetonia Fire Department, he rushed to the trailer in an attempt to aid Crook, who, by that time, was emerging through the door.

Firemen remained at the scene until 3:15 a.m. but were unable to salvage any of the trailer's contents. Cause of the blaze is undetermined.

Crook is now staying at the home of his son, Roy, who lives on an adjacent farm.

Council Will Hear Highway Engineer

Jack Kimball, an engineer for Division 11 of the State Highway Department at New Philadelphia, will be present at City Council's regular session Tuesday evening to answer questions concerning the relocation of Rt. 9.

Mayor Dean B. Cranmer arranged for Kimball to appear after Council, at a special meeting last Thursday, requested more detailed information on the project, especially with relation to the financing of the project.

Rubens Painting Stolen From Brussels Museum

BRUSSELS BELGIUM (AP)—A Rubens painting valued at a million dollars was stolen during the weekend from the Brussels Museum of Ancient Art.

Museum conservator P.H. Roberts - Jones told newsmen the painting, "The Negroes"

Heads," was worth at least $1 million.

The thief or thieves entered the museum through a glass roof from a scaffolding on houses being built behind the museum. They climbed down a 20-foot rope ladder, took the painting and escaped by the same route.

Mother, Five Children Die In Home Fire

CLEVELAND (AP)—"If only the folks downstairs had yelled. That's all we needed," said Theotis Dotson, whose pregnant wife and five children were killed by an intense fire that swept through their East Side apartment.

Dotson said his wife, Dorothy, 31, who was expecting another child next week, woke him early Sunday screaming that the house was on fire.

"I told her to get the kids and then I ran down the stairs to see what the matter was."

"The kitchen was a mass of flames. I ran upstairs, but by this time the fire was all around, and the kids and Dorothy were trapped in the back bedroom."

"All I can remember is the smoke, the fire and kids yelling, Daddy, Daddy, help us."

Dotson, 35, said he was driven back by flames and smoke when he tried to reach the bedroom. He jumped from the second-story kitchen window, escaping with cuts and bruises.

Killed with their mother were Wendolyn, 13, Larry, 12, Kerry, 5, and Theotis Jr., 3. Another daughter, Linda, 10, died five hours later in Polyclinic Hospital.

Twelve other residents - including nine children - got out of the two-story frame house safely.

Firemen said the blaze started in a front room on the first floor. Leo Malone, 28, who told firemen he was in the kitchen at the time, saw smoke and roused his sister, Mrs. Rose Norton, and her children. Mrs. Norton said there was no chance to get any warning to the Dotsons.

Eighth Battalion Fire Chief James Neelon said when he arrived flames were shooting out the windows. He estimates the loss at $14,000.

The Dotsons had moved to the apartment less than a week ago.

The Lenten Story

BY WOODY ISHMAEL

ALL THINGS ARE POSSIBLE TO HIM THAT BELIEVETH

During His short public life, Christ performed many miracles: through Him the blind saw, the lame walked, the dead rose.

In one instance, a man brought to Him his son, who was possessed of an evil spirit so that he frothed at the mouth, grinded his teeth and rolled on the ground in convulsions.

"If Thou canst do anything, have compassion on us and help us," the father pleaded.

In curing the boy, Christ gave the father and all mankind a lesson in faith: "If thou canst believe, all things are possible to him that believeth." (Mark IX:23)

Here Are Ways to Dress Up Those Neglected Walls

Do-it-yourselfers looking for cold weather indoor projects might consider improving beat-up walls in neglected areas—stairway, stair landings, foyers. Walls with their cracks, bumps and gouges are often rejected as projects when they are not in the living areas of the house. But these walls can be made an asset to the entire house and easily rejuvenated with a minimum of time and money.

Tearing out the entire wall is a big nuisance to the household, a dirty task for the do-it-yourselfer who must breathe in old plaster and a headache to the homemaker who must live with the mess. It is an expense no matter what course is pursued when a wall is torn out and replaced. New lathe and even additional new studs often are required, insulation, plaster or plasterboard and taping, and then the finish—paint or wall-covering—can chew up several hundred dollars.

AN ALTERNATIVE THAT can be less expensive and eliminate the mess involves putting up either a finished plywood—walnut teak, birch, etc.—or an ordinary plywood and covering it with one of the marvelous new wallcoverings.

Furring strips may be put up, plywood and then a finished decorative material to bring the cost down considerably. In addition, the handsome covering used can set a charm theme for the entire house.

An idea used by one well-known antiques buyer is a covering of deep gold burlap along the staircase wall of his little salt-box home and above the wainscoting of an attractive beamed living room.

THE GOLD COLOR IS exactly right for his English antiques, paintings and other treasures and the cost of the material used was negligible.

The burlap was put up with a special adhesive and attached with staples at sides to establish evenness. This burlap is laminated to a backing which is then coated with the adhesive before application.

Deep red is another effective staircase wall covering, with either contemporary or modern furnishings.

There are narrow and wide-striped tickings, and more elegant fabric coverings—linens, brocades, grass cloth and moirés. There are vinyl laminated and coated burlaps that defy grubby hands. They are scrubable and scuff resistant. These permit the use of light colors and white on walls and stairways.

WALL PANELING CAN upgrade old bumpy living room walls. A good rich finish can be achieved, too, by using a rich color above a wainscoting of warm-tone paneled wood.

Dark colors can flatter a small living room. If the proper balance is used—dark wood along with a rich color and light, bright accents, results can be truly amazing. The warmth of wood can help make the room cozier than any other decorating scheme.

This technique should be studied carefully before it is used. The proper textures and accent colors must accompany dark wood. Burlap is a good choice, providing the color chosen is not muddy. White wainscoting is an excellent choice for a small room, using yellow, vibrant blue or red paper or burlap above it. One is helped in the choice of this laminated burlap because colors available are beautiful. It is difficult to make a wrong decision, unless it is in the harmony of other furnishings in the room.

Garage Shelves Put Waste Space To Good Purpose

Stand in the center of your garage when the car isn't there and make a complete, slow turn. Look at all that wall space going to waste.

It requires no carpentry skill to put up shelves between the studs of garages with unfinished inside walls. Almost any type of available lumber will do for this purpose. You can use plywood strips if desired. . . or you may happen to have some scrap pieces of plywood around. You will find it easy to set the shelves on wooden or metal supports nailed or screwed to the sides of the studs.

TOOLS, GARDEN implements and the like can be hung from metal hooks set into the perforations of hardboard. The hardboard is easily attached to the studding. In the event that the inside of your garage is finished. . . that is, it has a flat-surfaced wall. . . you will have to attach furring strips in order to make use of perforated hardboard. If you do not do this, there will be no space behind the hardboard panels to insert the metal hooks.

If the inside walls of your garage are concrete or some form of masonry, attachments will be more difficult than with wood. Masonry shields or anchors may be the answer. These are small, hollow receptacles which are inserted in holes drilled into the concrete with either a power drill with a carbide-tipped bit or with a star drill. When a screw or special bolt is inserted into the shield or anchor, the receptacle expands, firmly gripping itself inside the concrete. In drilling the hole, make it slightly smaller than the shield or anchor, which is tapped into place to make a snug fit.

MASONRY NAILS ALSO can be used. These are hammered into the concrete like ordinary nails, but require strong blows. Some of the new epoxy adhesives permit the attachment of wood or other materials directly to the concrete. Furring strips or studding are hammered onto nails sticking out from the metal squares.

Should your garage be so small that there is no room at all to put anything on the side walls, you still can make use of the space at the back end. Suspend shelves from the ceiling rafters with 2 by 4 stringers. . . being certain that the shelves are high enough to permit the hood of the car to fit under them.

loosened. Some knobs are threaded on the shaft and will have to be turned several times before removing.

SOMETIMES ESCUTCHEON plate and knob come off together. In other instances the plate is held to the door with screws, or to the lock with a spring clip.

Once the inside hardware is removed, the lock mechanism generally comes out from the other side. Sometimes a cylindrical lock is held in place with another plate. Mortise locks slide out of the door once the knobs are removed and screws removed from the surface of the lock in the edge of the door.

Surface mounted rim locks and night latches which are not mortised are removed once the inside mechanism is taken off the face of the door.

WHILE YOU MAY NOT be a locksmith, a simple examination will tell you if a spring or some other main part is broken. Then a locksmith might be able to provide the part or make a simple repair, saving you the cost of a new lock. If you are not very mechanical in nature, it may be better to let a locksmith do the whole job.

Here's the Answer

QUESTION: I want to make a wooden stand for a second-hand bandsaw I bought a couple of weeks ago. How high should such a stand be?

ANSWER: First, one of the disadvantages of home-made stands is that they tend to become loose and wobbly after a time because of the constant vibration from the power machine. In recent years, more and more of these stands are being made of metal.

But if you wish to make your own of wood, greater strength can be obtained by making it with mortised, lapped or joints other than ordinary butt joints. There's one other way to insure a solidly constructed stand for this purpose. Use metal rods as braces. These rods must be threaded at both ends, so that after they connect parts of the frame, they can be held tightly in place with washers and nuts. The added rigidity given to the frame by these braces will insure many extra years of life to the stand.

As for the dimensions, while the recommended height for a bandsaw stand is 34 inches, you shouldn't hesitate to make it higher or lower depending on your own height. The main thing is that you should feel comfortable while operating the saw.

Tears In Our Ears

College isn't what it used to be. A survey by U.S. News - World Report confirms scattered impressions of changes the rest of us had been aware of if we had kids in college.

I remember when our older son was halfway through his undergraduate education I asked him if he ever had the kind of fun my generation had, ticking off some sample jollies of that distant day. He was astonished.

He explained there was no time for that kind of thing; that everybody had to keep hitting the books or risk being edged out; that college wasn't terminal education for most of his classmates but only preparation for graduate school. Fun — who needed it?

This is one thing the survey disclosed — that college students are under constant pressure to keep their heads above water and so serious their preceptors wish they knew how to make them relax.

THEY DON'T GO crazy about spectator sports the way they used to. They pay more attention to individual sports like handball — things they can do themselves.

They're better prepared than they used to be; they had to bear down in high school if they wanted to be admitted to a first rate voluntary college. This and do it. They study.

One thing the survey claims to have dug up about students is puzzling. Couples tend to pair off early, is the report. Often the pairing off is permanent.

Bless Cupid's little crossbow, surveyors. For generations, girls have been traipsing off to college to go steady with a male student with permanency in mind. And male students have been accommodating themselves to the strategy for the best and simplest of all possible reasons.

Going steady has been a form of social stability. Besides, it has been a relative term. A male student could "go steady" with as many as half a dozen girls a semester if he knew how to handle his semantics. All it meant was that if each member of the alliance staked out a claim and could defend it against all comers they were "going steady" — until they went steady with someone else, that is. And that's another thing the surveyors learned about modern students. They quit playing the field earlier and concentrate on the favorite: they get married.

THE ARRANGEMENT usually is that the bride continues to work while the young husband studies. At some universities they hand out PH.D. degrees to the wives of the PH.D. graduates — Putting Hubby Through.

For sure, college isn't like it used to be. But in that respect it's like home-cooking, which never was like it used to be. The generalities about it are misleading. It wasn't all jollies and high jinks, though they are what we remember best.

There were intervals of dreadful anxiety and passages of grim study.

So what if the competition wasn't as fierce as it is today. We weren't as well-prepared as kids are today, either. We suffered, too. We had tears in our ears, while we were keeping the Jazz Age from running out of gas.

We Get the Idea

President Johnson has been resolving his own doubts about how his countrymen want him to handle the presidency in public, we think.

Perhaps this is the only way he can make up his mind, because he is literally a public figure — a person who feels a public proprietorship over his life.

But if he is asking for popular judgment by opening his state of mind to intensive public view, he should know the one thing he is doing that may bring judgment on him harshly is to cover too much ground in public statements.

A president of the United States is not like an ordinary man when he speaks. Everything a president says is studied for meaning and mood.

If he says so much that those responding to his thoughts must make lists, as they have been doing lately, and respond categorically, the performance gets out of hand.

President Johnson would be well-advised by his press secretaries to comment on one thing at a time and do that half as often as he has been commenting lately.

The presidency is not a stream-of-consciousness position. Everything that comes out of it is the responsibility of the American people.

We think Mr. Johnson has been putting himself and the rest of us at ease by showing an air of easy assurance. We get the idea. From now on, it isn't essential that there be as much talking. Our assurance is doing well, thanks.

Be of Good Cheer

By Truman Twill

Scientific hogwash leaves me cold, but here's a batch that's different.

A pathologist named Hudson Hoagland, executive director of the Worcester (Mass.) Foundation for Experimental Biology, thinks overcrowding among animals causes them to sicken and die.

Human beings also are animals. Dr. Hoagland is cautious, but he theorizes that people may be affected the same way by overcrowding as rats and jackrabbits. Could it be we are proving this by the way men who work under stress are toppling over with assorted ailments?

The stress that has become a trademark of the times is not associated with physical exertion. It is another kind, with physical exertion — and this is why this batch of scientific hogwash is different.

It is the kind of stress resulting from overactivity of the pituitary-adrenal system, the sensitive glandular mechanism that goes into operation when human beings become angry and frightened.

IT IS PART of the whole mechanism that gears the human body to the human mind. Closely associated with it is the digestive system in which some people develop ulcers because they cannot withstand aggravation, annoyance and worry.

It is hooked up with the things that cause lumps in throats and pounding hearts. One way and another, it is hooked up with everything that goes with living in an overcrowded environment.

It follows from this that what Dr. Hoagland calls the "stress syndrome" may be killing off surplus people faster than the Malthus method, which is pestilence, starvation and war.

Modern medicine has put hobbles on pestilence. Starvation is avoidable to an extent undreamed of before U.S. agriculture learned how to grow surpluses, and war finally has been taken behind the lines to the statesmen, who consequently have lost their enthusiasm for it. The Three Horsemen have had it.

But stress will grow in algebraic progression as people multiply and crowd together, bugging one another until one by one we'll all gasp our last breath, victims of the stress syndrome.

THE THOUGHT is not cheerful, yet it is not without cheer, because people keep asking where it's all going to end.

The answer is in plain sight.

We'll just keep milling around faster and faster until we bug one another to death. It will be the way a fellow worker of mine used to say it was before the stress syndrome finally got him.

"It ain't the work," he'd say as high blood pressure crimsoned his neck and head. "It's the tension that goes with getting it done. It'll kill you if you don't watch out."

It killed him.

Goldwater's Popularity Dip

By RAYMOND MOLEY

There are certain factors connected with the widely reported decline in the fortunes of Sen. Barry Goldwater which some of his critics might well consider. These critics that I have in mind are not liberal Democrats who have opposed Goldwater and his ideas for years.

No. These new critics are former admirers who have raised doubts about him since Nov. 22. Some are conservative people who find fault with the way he is campaigning and with some of his reported statements.

Some are Republicans who for the last four years have been calling for a clear and positive choice between the parties in 1964. Others are organization party leaders, in public office and out, who are looking for a less "controversial" candidate. And some are businessmen who have been taken in by President Johnson's corny platitudes and his phony gestures toward economy.

ALL THESE "summer soldiers and sunshine patriots" have in the past been applauding sentiments identical with what Goldwater is uttering now. Within the circle of critics, there are many Republicans in office who have been the beneficiaries over the years of Goldwater's tireless campaigning for them and for the Republican party to which they belong.

These people should realize that it was inevitable that, sometime before the convention in July, the earlier steady rise in Goldwater sentiment would level off or take a temporary dip. This has happened in other years and to other public figures before George Gallup was born and before polling had become a thriving industry.

In 1892 when President Harrison was defeated for reelection, Gov. William McKinley of Ohio was the most popular Republican in the nation and seemed to be on his way to the presidency. But a year or so later he found himself penniless because he had innocently endorsed a friend's notes. He was ridiculed from coast to coast. But his fortunes recovered and he was nominated and elected.

THE OCCASION for the inevitable dip in Goldwater's popularity was the death of President Kennedy. Goldwater critics sprang up everywhere, and now everything he said is lint-picked.

His decision when he announced his candidacy, however, was that he would avoid the double talk which is the habit of candidates and continue to speak his mind as before. He was and is more concerned with the stimulation of conservative thinking than he is with getting the nomination.

His supporters will have to attend to the mustering of a majority at the July convention. Because he is mainly concerned with a Republican victory in November, he is not attacking any of his rivals for the nomination, an example which Gov. Rockefeller might well emulate. For the party must live, and its members should support the nominee.

Moreover, some of the statements for which Goldwater has been criticized are, when closely examined, sound and true. There are two examples. He said that our missiles are unreliable. This is true when it is considered that, with the development of missiles, the more tested and accurate manned aircraft have been neglected.

VERIFICATION of Goldwater's position on this has since been supplied by scientists and such military experts as Hanson Baldwin and Air Force Chief of Staff Curtis E. LeMay.

Gen. Eisenhower won no laurels as a logician when he said in criticism of Goldwater that our missiles are the best in the world. That was merely begging the question.

It was reported that Goldwater called for a blockade of Cuba after the Guantanamo incident. And so the State Department creid out that a blockade is "an act of war." But Goldwater did not advocate an act of war. He said:

"The long-discussed blockade of subversion from Cuba and the blockade of military materials going into Cuba must be finally and fully applied."

Later he said that such a blockade would extend to "anything that is going in there" which Cuba can use "to maintain Communism and to spread it through this Hemisphere."

If this had been done when the threat appeared in 1962, there would have been no missile crisis in 1962 and infinitely fewer upsets in Latin America.

We cannot have a candidate with whom every Republican can agree on every detail. But if the two-party system is to operate, a clear choice is needed. Goldwater is simply asking whether the Republican party wants such a choice.

Foreign Aid and U.S. Dollars

By DR. GEORGE S. BENSON
President—National Education Program

Senator John L. McClellan of Arkansas has a record of voting against foreign aid since 1954.

In mid-November, when the current authorization bill was before the Senate, he gave notice that he would again oppose foreign aid and told the nation in a Senate speech just why he would do so.

His reasons why he has refused for the tenth year to give foreign aid an affirmative vote should be known to all concerned citizens across the land. Despite his objections the bill was passed by the Senate after 15 days of debate, 63 to 17.

THE MEASURE authorized $3,702,365,000 in spending for this fiscal year. Senator McClellan told the nation that the $103 billion committed by the U. S. to military and economic aid since 1945 had produced results "not too gratifying; indeed, they are extremely disappointing."

One can find in history, he said, the fall of nations such as ancient Byzantium which relied too heavily on foreign aid. "The whole thrust and emphasis of our program is, in my judgment, misguided, so I have no alternative but to continue my opposition," the Senator said.

HE CITED EIGHT general shortcomings of the aid program: 1. The U. S. has either lost sight of the goals it pursues with aid or pursues contradictory goals. 2. Assistance creates envy and resentment by its bestowal and hatred and hardship by its refusal. 3. U. S. aid often encourages the development or perpetuation of socialism by leaders anxious to maintain power by clamping government control on all facets of life in their countries.

(The Senator cited continued nationalization of industry in Turkey as an example of this last objection. Our nation, he said, ought to provide underdeveloped countries with the benefit of our experiences in massive growth through private enterprise. This has not been our accustomed practice. Instead of encouraging nations to follow our leadership as free-enterprisers, we lean over backward to let it be known that we cannot interfere, even to suggest that private ownership offers superior advantages as a method of conducting the commerce of a country.)

4. U. S. aid often never gets any further than the ruling class in a country. 5. Often this country gets no recognition for the good its aid is said to accomplish. 6. Massive aid — $2.4 billion to Yugoslavia alone since 1946 — to Communist countries is reprehensible. 7. Foreign aid is a major factor in the U. S. balance of payments deficit. 8. Military aid does not keep nations from falling under the Communist yoke. (Armed might is the only thing that does this, Senator McClellan said.)

Strong Senate opposition to foreign aid, of which these eight objections from the Arkansas Senator are examples, undoubtedly made possible the healthy cuts in the amounts and the various limitations placed upon use of the funds. Total cuts amounting to about one billion were put through, restrictions were placed upon assistance to aggressor nations, and aid was banned to countries that expropriate properties of U. S. companies or annul contracts with them without giving prompt and adequate compensation.

THERE ARE so many objectionable features to foreign aid that it is hard to say which most damaging. Serious indeed is the delusion that leads many to feel that national security is created through foreign aid. Some Congressmen, following Administration leaders, have said that this money makes defense of the free world possible.

Yet after spending more than $100 billion, the U. S. is still the only nation able or willing to deter war or offer defense should war come. Aid beneficiaries remain largely unstable, and like Cambodia, don't know to which side they owe loyalty.

But perhaps the financial strain to which foreign aid has subjected our economic strength is its worst feature. The late President commented in July that the U. S. would be bankrupt if France and Germany should present their dollar credits for payment.

It remains a frightening situation, this loss of gold, one that holds the possibility of bankruptcy and chaos in the free world.

Whether our creditors can maintain confidence in the dollar, while we insist on being so reckless, is questionable.

CIA Club Over Soviets

By SEMOUR FREIDIN
LONDON

The recent Central Intelligence Agency report on the doldrums into which the Soviet economy has drifted is being avidly read and cited in Communist East Europe.

The reasons for the popularity there of the report, found so controversial by disbelievers in Western Europe and so touchy in the Soviet Union, is strictly self-interest.

Politburo and economic planners of the satellite nations, of things, are using the report's details to blame the Soviet Union for their own disasters in agriculture and industry.

Last year was the third year in a row in which Soviet bloc economies fell in the rate of growth. Information from non-Western sources is that the bloc doesn't like Soviet remedies — and is saying so.

What apparently rubs things in extra for the Russians is that the CIA report is being used as background research for comradely complaints. The CIA found, early last month, that Soviet economic growth has slipped to less than 2.5 per cent annually. In the United States, the rate is about double.

EASTERN EUROPE generally ranged between the Soviet low point and a 3 per cent rate that represented a slowdown from 6 per cent in 1960.

Last year, in Czechoslovakia and East Germany, attempts to revitalize the economies were disastrous. These two satellites alone contain half the total industrial power of the satellite states.

In stepped the Russians with a bright idea: The bloc would have to integrate as well as specialize through the Council For Mutual Economic Aid (COMECON), the Communists' competitive answer to West Europe's Common Market.

The idea rapidly lost its shine and is fading today. Some countries like Romania, see economic salvation through — believe it or not — more free competition and free prices. To back themselves up, they cite the CIA report. Nobody of economic importance in the satellites seems to contest the CIA findings.

The normally secretive CIA put out the report, ostensibly, to keep Western Europe from granting any large-scale, long-term credits to the U.S.S.R. The Russians, for example, would need to buy $2 billion in equipment to expand their chemical industry. They'd require credits to do so.

Obviously, the Communist-run East European regimes do not believe the American-sponsored economic deterrent means them otherwise, informants pointed out, they would scarcely harass the Russians with points specifically made by the CIA.

INDEED THESE regimes have been arranging commercial credit programs with West Germany, although none formally recognizes the Federal Republic.

Another interesting hook from which the bloc regimes are trying to disengage themselves is extensive aid to Cuba. If the Russians want to keep up help to Fidel Castro, it is all right with them. Count us out, though, on anything big, is the way they put it to Moscow at a recent economic planners' meeting.

The reason? Their own economic plight and the inability of the Soviet Union to help them. "Turn to the CIA report to see why," is in effect what they are saying to the Russians.

Ann Landers Answers

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a respectable married woman with a good husband and two nice children. The problem is this: Almost every night I dream about my boss.

I admire this man very much. He is the kindest and most generous person I have ever known. He is also old enough to be my father so I have no romantic interest in him whatsoever—at least not during the daytime. But when night rolls around it's a different story.

The next day in the office I can hardly face him. I keep telling myself a person can't help what he dreams, but the boss must wonder why I act so self-conscious. When he speaks to me I always pretend to be fussing with a hangnail or a loose button on my blouse—anything to avoid looking him in the eye.

The boss's wife does not treat him very nicely, which makes me mad, but of course this is none of my business and I would never let on that I notice. In my dreams he's always seeking consolation from me.

My embarrassment is beginning to interfere with my work. Do dreams mean anything? Can you help me?—DOUBLE LIFE.

Dear Life: Yes, dreams do mean something, but I'm no interpreter of dreams and would not presume to tell you what they mean.

At the subconscious level you unquestionably have some suppressed desires in connection with your boss. If these dreams persist perhaps you'd better get another job before your subconscious desires turn into conscious ones.

Social Outcasts

Dear Ann: Our daughter married a young man with whom she had kept steady company for four years. During their courtship the parents of the young man were polite but cool to us. We never were invited to their home for dinner, although they accepted two invitations to ours.

Recently I had occasion to call at their home. They did not suggest that my husband come, too, although other couples were present. He was crushed and now says we must have nothing to do with these people since it is apparent they don't care for our company.

We have planned several family affairs this year and have decided not to invite them. Our daughter is hurt and embarrassed by the attitude of her in-laws but we do not speak of it. Are we right in excluding them?—HEAVY HEARTS.

Dear Heavy Hearts: Being related is not a good enough reason to invite people to your parties. Furthermore, these people are your daughter's relatives, not yours.

Since they have indicated no desire to count you as social friends, take the hint. Invite them only when their absence would embarrass your daughter and son-in-law, such as a christening party for your grandchild or your children's wedding anniversary.

Third Strike

Dear Ann: A very good friend of mine is under 30 years of age. She is beautiful, bright and holds a responsible position. This woman has just married for the third time—another handsome, mean, abusive sweet-talker with an alcohol problem. In fact, the first husband and the third husband look enough alike to be brothers.

I would be willing to bet my bottom dollar that this marriage will end up as the others did—in pieces. Why would such an intelligent, lovely woman be stupid enough to make the same mistake three times?—DISTRESSED ONLOOKER.

Dear Looker: Your friend's choice of husbands has nothing to do with brains. The woman marries punitive, abusive men because she has a personality problem.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Salem News, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Health Questions And Answers

Q—What are the early symptoms of kidney stones? How can they be prevented? We have an artesian well and the water is very hard.

A — When kidney stones start forming they are very small and cause no symptoms. A urinalysis at this stage may reveal blood and albumin in the urine. Also urinary gravel consisting of stones not much larger than grains of sand may be passed. As the stones get larger they pass from the kidneys to the bladder with greater difficulty. It may take several hours of extreme agony for neo such stone to pass.

Until we know more about the cause of these stones we can't be very scientific about means of prevention. Most doctors now believe that there is no single cause. Several factors must occur simultaneously to produce stones. Since there are different kinds of stones the causes also vary with the type of stone.

Drinking excessive amounts of milk (more than a quart a day) has long been thought to be a factor in the production of stones. It is believed that the combination of calcium and milk sugar favors the production of stones. Even this will not cause stones unless, as a result of disease or injury in the urinary tract, there is a foreign body nucleus for the calcium or magnesium salts to crystallize on.

Another study suggests that acetazolamide, a diuretic widely used in the treatment of edema or waterlogging, favors the development of magnesiumammonium phosphate stones. But here again an injury to the urinary tract was a necessary preliminary factor.

Other observers have found that a lack of zinc and manganese in the soil, and hence in the local water supply, favors stone formation. With this in mind, prevention by means of adding these elements to the water supply in communities where they are lacking suggests itself.

To answer your last question, the fact that your water is hard (contains calcium and magnesium) would not in itself cause kidney stones.

Murder-Suicide Is Ruling In Athens Shooting Tragedy

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — The sheriff and coroner have recorded the Athens County hill country shooting tragedy of the past weekend as quadruple murder and suicide.

Funeral arrangements are under way for the five victims, including a mass funeral for 4 slain members of the W. M. Wildman family.

That will be held in Parkersburg, W.Va., at 1 p.m. Tuesday. Meanwhile, the body of Rudy Zamora, who reportedly put a shotgun in his stomach Saturday morning as a posse closed in on him, was to be shipped to San Antonio, Tex., probably Monday.

Carlos Zamora, father of Rudy, 20, lives in San Antonio, whence the youth came to Ohio to work for the Wilmans, his sister's in-laws.

W. M. Wildman, 57; his wife, Mildred, 60; their son, Eugene, 14, and their widowed daughter, Mrs. Geneva Pierce, about 26, will lie in Parkersburg's Leavitt Funeral Home. The parents and the boy will be buried in Bethany Cemetery near Parkersburg, Mrs. Pierce at Cathage in Athens County.

Meanwhile survivors of the family must take up new lives in the wake of the mass shooting at the Wildman farm home, now officially attributed to the young farmhand.

The Wildmans leave a daughter, Patricia, 22, a Parkersburg college student who is in Athens' Sheltering Arms Hospital in fair condition with wounds received in the shooting spree.

And Mrs. Pierce leaves four young sons—Danny, 6, Dale, 5, David, 3, and Dean, 2. Danny also is in the hospital, recovering from wounds he too received during the tragedy.

The boys are orphans. Their father died only about a month ago of a heart attack.

The Sheriff's Office said an aunt was caring for the boys who weren't wounded, and that "everybody is taking for granted" that relatives will care for them permanently.

Then there are the Wildmans' son, Solomon, who lives with his wife—Rudy Zamora's sister, Carmen—in a house trailer at Middleport, 25 miles from here. Solomon works as a circulation man for Athens' daily newspaper, the Messenger.

County Realtors Hear Clingerman

The Columbiana County Board of Realtors met recently at Timberlakes, in charge by the newly-elected president, Richard G. Capel.

Speaker of the evening was Harold Clingerman, regional representative of the National Association of Real Estate Boards. He stressed importance of real estate boards taking a more active part in City, County and Township Zoning and Planning and Industrial Expansion.

It was pointed out that the average investment required today to provide one job is about $20,000.00. A single job provides an average of 3 persons with purchasing power.

Clingerman stated that "we are very fortunate to be in an area where it is nationally considered to have a great future and industrial potential."

He also stated that in the future the real estate business will be governed by stricter license laws and he said educational requirements and the licensee will be classified as much similarly to those professions such as lawyers, architects or engineers.

The Realtor organization is 46 years old, with 75,000 realtors listed in the United States today.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

Dear Folks: Mary Weaver, a home economist from one of the biggest manufacturers of cast-iron ware hurried to our rescue with complete directions for the care of those lovely iron skillets, etc.

She says that if the instructions are followed, any cast-iron utensil can be put into a serviceable condition.

USE AND CARE OF CAST-IRON WARE: Cast-iron utensils require slightly different handling in the home than utensils of some other materials.

Cast-iron ware is pre-seasoned. This means that there is no anti-rust lacquer to remove and that the seasoning is started at the factory. For most cooking purposes no further seasoning is necessary and all that is needed is to wash and thoroughly dry the utensil. Strong detergents shouldn't be used, however, as they tend to remove seasoning.

This is true of skillets, griddles and regular pot roasting where no water is added. But if new dutch ovens and chicken fryers are to be used for stews more grease may be needed while they are still new to prevent rust caused by condensing moisture.

ALWAYS REMOVE the cover if you are not ready to serve food immediately after cooking, so that condensing steam does not cause rust on the sides. This may occur with very moist foods when a cast-iron utensil is new. After using several times there should be no trouble with rust in cooking.

A cast-iron utensil should never be scoured. If it is scoured, the seasoning may be removed and rusting or a metallic taste may result.

If for any reason scouring or scraping becomes necessary, do as little as possible and then use slightly more grease than usual when the utensil is next used.

After each use, wash in hot soapy water. Rinse and wipe dry, then cover inside of utensil with a coating of unsalted shortening and when ready to use next time wipe the inside of the pan and the cover with a dry cloth or paper towel.

GREASE AGAIN with shortening and cook food as usual. Follow the plan of coating utensil before and after using first few times. Many successful cooks always coat the inside of a cast-iron utensil with fat before putting foods in to cook.

A cast-iron utensil should not be stored with the cover on as this might cause "sweating" which will develop rust. Also, never store in a moist, damp place.

Do not worry when a cast-iron utensil becomes spotted with water or grease. They will darken and season evenly with time and continued use.

Rust, discolored food or metallic taste are all indications that the seasoning has been removed from the pores of the metal.

AS SOON as the utensil has absorbed additional grease from cooking, it will be permanently rust-proof for all types of cooking.

If the condition persists, however, and is very bad, it will be better to reseason it.

TO RESEASON CAST-IRON: First, the utensil should be thoroughly scoured on the inside using steel wool or a metal scouring pad. Then it should be washed in soap and water and completely dried.

Second, it should then be coated with unsalted fat, preferably suet, and placed in a moderate oven about two hours.

Third, when taken from the oven the excess fat should be wiped off with a paper towel or cloth and the utensil is ready to give many years of thoroughly satisfactory service.

Cast-iron utensils should never be scoured in regular use. To scour them is to remove the seasoning. Just wash them in soap and water and dry thoroughly after each use.

And our thanks to you Miss Weaver for your wonderful, clear instructions. You are a blessing to us.

HELOISE.

Ex-Diplomat Troubleshooter Hits Blocade of Berlin In '48

NEW YORK (AP) — Robert Murphy, a top diplomatic troubleshooter for 20 years, says the U.S. failure to challenge the Russians when they blockaded Berlin in 1948 led to Communist aggression in Korea.

Writing in the Feb. 22 issue of The Saturday Evening Post, Murphy says he and Gen. Lucius D. Clay proposed using "a small combat force to call the Russian bluff at Helmstedt."

The Joint Chiefs of Staff opposed the idea of using force, Murphy says, and President Harry S. Truman "reluctantly approved this opinion."

"Strangely enough," Murphy writes, "nobody, either military or civilian, mentioned that the United States government in 1948 possessed a growing stockpile of atomic bombs, while Russia had none yet."

The article by Murphy, who has retired, is a condensation from his book, "Diplomat Among Warriors," to be published this month by Doubleday Co., Inc.

At the time of the Berlin blockade Murphy was Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's political adviser on German affairs. Eisenhower then was U.S. Army chief of staff.

"The Berlin blockade is the one occasion in my long career where I feel I should have resigned in public protest against Washington's policy," Murphy discloses.

He says he suffered anguish over the Berlin policy, "and I still deeply regret that I was associated with an action which caused Soviet leaders to downgrade United States determination and capability, and led, I believe, to the subsequent Communist provocation in Korea."

Murphy says he first became concerned about Berlin's status at the time of the Nazi surren-terrorists. They said one shot the military policeman at close range. Another hurried into the theater with a canvas satchel. A third man—or woman—may have been involved.

A U.S. military spokesman said the lone Vietnamese civil policeman on duty outside the theater was seen pedaling away on a bicycle shortly before the attack.

The MP was killed by a single bullet through the neck. At least three shots were heard, however, indicating the soldier may have got off some shots.

The audience, which included U.S. servicemen, civilian officials and American dependents, was watching "The List of Adrian Messenger." Army Maj. William Koch, a patron, said most of the audience ducked under seats or rushed to the front when the Marine captain and an usher shouted warnings.

Seven Americans remained hospitalized — six servicemen and a female military employee. Five American children were treated and released. None was seriously injured.

The nine Vietnamese who were injured were outside the building.

U.S. Charge d'Affaires David G. Nes scheduled a meeting with Premier Nguyen Khanh to discuss new security measures for the nearly 10,000 Americans in Saigon.

Since the beginning of the year, Communist guerrillas have begun a campaign of terror specifically against Americans, including civilians. Vietnamese intelligence agents recently reported that Communist terrorists have moved into Saigon for that purpose.

U.S. military police swarmed the streets of Saigon after a tip that a bombing attempt might be made against the hospital where some of the injured from the theater blast were taken. No explosion occurred.

On Feb. 1, a terrorist bomb left in a Saigon bar killed a U.S. serviceman and a Vietnamese and injured four other Americans. Three days later a Viet Cong assassination squad broke into a U.S. military compound in Kontum, 260 miles north of Saigon, wounding one American officer.

Multiple Charges Filed After Fight

Broadway; and $50 and costs on assault and battery charges filed by Zara Jane Morris of 216 S. Broadway.

Liber's sparring partner in the ruckus, Glen E. Saffred, 33, of W. State St. was fined $10 and costs for intoxication; $15 and costs for disorderly conduct charged by Shoemaker, and $25 and costs for resisting arrest. Both men pleaded guilty to all charges.

Matter of Fact

Budapest, the capital of Hungary, is actually two cities divided by the Danube River. Buda, on the hill, was traditionally the seat of the rulers and gentry while Pest, lying on the plain, was the town of trade and industry.

Ruby

murder, as an integral part of the case for Ruby.

But Henry M. Wade, Dallas County district attorney, says Oswald's guilt or innocence is immaterial in Ruby's trial.

The key phrase in the indictment of Ruby charges he "...did then and there with malice aforethought kill Lee Harvey Oswald by shooting him with a gun."

This is equivalent to a charge of murder in the first degree in other states. It carries a maximum penalty of execution in the electric chair. The minimum is two years in prison.

Wade says he will demand the death penalty for Ruby. Out of 25 murder trials, Wade has obtained 24 convictions.

Rubys trial, it appears now, will develop into a battle of psychiatrists.

His defense will pivot on a claim of temporary insanity, the assertion that he became unhinged with grief by the death of the President.

His chief defense counsel, Melvin Mounon Belli, of San Francisco in an informal talk with reporters Sunday night spoke of "psychomotor epilepsy," "psychic shock" and "trauma." He pictured Ruby as a victim of psychomotor epilepsy, subject to blackouts, which could be touched off by rage, shock, or a powerful emotion.

He said he did not know whether he would put Ruby on the witness stand, but he said:

"If he's on the stand a long time, you'll see a definite disfunction. This guy, if you keep him there, on the stand or in jail much longer, you won't have to take him any place to show he's wacky."

The state contends Ruby was completely sane when he shot Oswald. Homicide Police Capt. Will Fritz and officer James R. Leavell—who was handcuffed to Oswald when Ruby shot him looked calm at that moment. Ruby shot Oswald at close range with a snub-nosed, 38-caliber pistol Nov. 24.

Two unusual elements hang darkly over this case.

One is the speculation that Kennedy's death was the result of a monstrous conspiracy, and that Ruby killed Oswald to "keep him from talking." No evidence has appeared to support this. On the contrary, in a series of ghost-written articles under Ruby's name, the accused man said:

"No one knew I was going to shoot Oswald—not even me. No one helped me or gave me access. I didn't do it intentionally. I didn't even know I had done it."

The other is Belli's contention that Dallas is so saturated with prejudice and feelings of guilt that Ruby cannot get a fair trial here. He says people in Dallas want a "sacrifice" to purge the name of the city.

Last week, Belli fought to have the trial moved to some other city. After presiding Judge Joe B. Brown ordered the lawyers to begin trying to select a jury today, Belli said:

"The people of Dallas, perhaps unconsciously, have to have a sacrifice in order to cleanse themselves, to prove Dallas is a law abiding community. They feel if Ruby is executed, it would re-establish some sense of law and order."

Last month, Judge Brown ordered a neurological examination of Ruby by three psychiatrists, one requested by the prosecution, one by the defense, the third, appointed by the judge.

Brown said their report is now in custody of the court.

2 Boys Held For Theft of Car Here

Two teen-age boys, one from Salem and the other from Grove City, Pa., have been charged with car theft by Police Chief Martin Lutsch Jr.

The youths, Thomas A. Blythe, 18, of 690 W. Pershing St. and David L. Sweeney, 19, of 221 W. Pine St., Grove City, were arrested after the auto was recovered by Grove City police Friday night.

The auto, owned by Frederick C. Minamyer of 890 N. Ellsworth Ave., was taken from in front of his home sometime between midnight and 1 a.m. last Tuesday. Lutsch said the keys had been left in the vehicle.

Lutsch and Lt. Robert Kirchgessner went to Pennsylvania Saturday to get Sweeney, who was being held in the Mercer County jail. Blythe was picked up in Salem.

According to Lutsch, both youths have signed statements admitting the theft.

The youths are to appear before Judge Luther Donbar in Northwest County Court this afternoon for a hearing.

Plane

the four-place Aero-commander CAP planes in Michigan an Ohio were hampered in their search early Sunday by poor visibility, but this condition improved later in the day. Twenty-five planes of the Ohio CAP searched some 8,000 square miles of Northwest Ohio until dark. Coast Guard plane also joined the search.

A Kresge Co. spokesman said Drake and Black planned to survey possible locations for Kresge retail stores in the Akron-Canton-Warren area. Plans call for Drake to build the stores' lease to the merchandising chain.

A Warren man, Walter I. Graham, was to have met Drake and Black in Akron. It was he who notified authorities that the plane had not reached its destination.

One Hurt, 2 Cited In Road Mishaps

Barbara Ann Albright, 19, of RD 4, Lisbon, was slightly injured early today when her car struck two other cars involved in a traffic mishap minutes before on Depot Rd., about four miles south of Salem. She was treated by a physician for contusions of both knees.

R. D. Delagrangue of the Lisbon post of the State Highway Patrol said Curtis J. Sears, 21, of RD 3 pulled from a private drive and was struck at 7:40 a.m. by a northbound car operated by Bernice J. Artor, 45, of RD 4, Lisbon. Both cars were slightly damaged and neither motorist was hurt.

A few minutes later, Miss Albright's car struck both the Sears and Artor vehicles as she was driving north.

Sears was cited for failing to yield the right of way and Miss Albright for failing to stop at the assured clear distance.

at the

Country Store

I was just walking through the store here trying to think of something to write about. Something that might bring a few more people here to the Country Store.

The first thing you see when you start down the aisle is our beautiful produce. The fixtures are not the most modern but after all you don't get to take them with you but their cost must be added on to the price you pay.

Our produce prices are lower than you would pay elsewhere and the quality right up there on top.
